Subject: Measures for efficient utilization and conservation of water in national laboratories of CSIR.

Sir,

This has reference to your letter No. IITR/CW/16(RWHS)/08-09/Works dated 26.11.2008.

In this connection, it is mentioned that feasibility of grey-water (wastewater from bathroom, cloth washing, hand-washing etc) may please be worked out. We suggest that wastewater from laboratory (due to variation in quality of wastewater) and kitchen (due to oil and vegetable content and lesser quantity) should not be mixed with the grey-water. A separate system has to be designed for the household grey-water and laboratory wastewater. Treated grey-water and sewage can be used for toilet flushing, controlled irrigation and other non-contact and non-potable purpose. Leakage control will also help in minimizing water losses.

A Guidance Manual prepared by NEERI for the design of grey-water treatment and reuse system is enclosed for your reference.

We also recommend reference to the document "Guidelines for the safe use of wastewater, excreta and grey-water" prepared by World Health Organisation before contemplating reuse of wastewater and grey-water in IITR Campus.

Best regards,

(A. S. Dubey)
